
This legislation would allow employees to contribute up to $5,250 tax-free annually to their employers’ student loans—providing employees with much-needed relief and employers with a unique tool to attract and retain talented employees—including social workers. Neither employers nor employees would be taxed on this money.

This legislation would increase the reimbursement rate for clinical social workers (CSW) in Medicare from 75% to 85% of the physician fee schedule, improve Medicare beneficiaries access to CSW services when placed in skilled nursing facilities and allow CSWs to bill for HBAI services.

This legislation would require hospitals, residential treatment facilities, substance use disorder treatment centers, clinics at correctional or detention facilities, and other service facilities to develop and implement comprehensive violence prevention plans and provide workplace protections for workers.

This legislation would create a Social Work Reinvestment Commission to provide a comprehensive analysis of issues facing the social work profession, including workforce needs, high educational debt, low salaries, cultural diversity, and the connection between research and practice. It will also fund demonstration grants to address relevant, “on the ground” realities experienced by our nation’s professional social workers.
